To the friends of Temperance and the public generally we now make our appeal in behalf of this paper. The publisher feeling it a matter of importance to the interest of the Temperance cause in the District, as well as the general interest of the cause, and having been, as he conceives, Providentially placed in a situation at this time when he can mingle this interest with that of the business men, and thereby render a double service to the community, and still further open a medium of communication by which our principles may be extended far and wide, at a cheap rate. He has purchased a printing establishment, so as not only to be able to put a daily paper regularly to press, but also a weekly; and still further, be able to do any other printing the public may be pleased to have done; and he assures them that they shall have no cause of complaint. He has made arrangements by which he can devote his time to the interest of the office and the paper; and, having employed Mr. Charles W.
Fenton, who will be always on the spot, to conduct the printing, he has no doubt but that general satisfaction will be given. We shall make arrangements to have the earliest news; also the proceedings of Congress.

We wish all who are indebted for the paper up to this time to pay up, as the affairs of the tri-weekly must be closed. They will perceive that we are about to give them a better paper, double the number, at the same price.

While the "COLUMBIAN FOUNTAIN" will be devoted to the cause of Temperance, its columns will be enriched by original articles on subjects calculated to interest, instruct, and benefit its readers. It is intended so to blend variety, amusement, and instruction, as that the various tastes of its patrons may be (as far as it is practicable) gratified.
Commerce, Literature, and Science, and every other subject of interest, not inconsistent with Temperance and morality, will receive the earnest attention of the publishers.
Nothing of a sectarian, political, or personal character will be admitted.

A CARD.

THE subscriber begs leave to say to members of Congress and others, that he has several good rooms which he will let on accommodating terms, either furnished or unfurnished, located on the South side of Pennsylvania avenue, between 9th and 10th streets, and equidistant between the Capitol and the public offices. I have also two of the best cellars in the city, which I will rent in part or the whole, or receive goods on storage.
This is a good opportunity for butchers or market people.

ANOTHER DEACON GILES CASE.

A libel suit has been tried at New Bedford, Mass. The plaintiff was William Wilbar, a large dealer in spirituous liquors, in Taunton, and the defendants were Benj.
W. Williams and others, the editor and publisher of a spirited temperance paper, printed at Taunton, called the Dew Drop. In January last, they published a glowing description of Wilbar's establishment, under the similitude of "A Dream," as follows:

A DREAM.

"WAS IT ALL A DREAM."

As we sat in our room a few days since, thinking what more could be done to advance the cause of temperance in the community, we fell asleep and dreamed the following dream. We were in Rum Hollow, and by some irresistible impulse we were drawn into that house of human slaughter, kept by one WILBAR. Such sights as we there saw, may we never behold again. As we passed the threshold, the first object that attracted our attention was the presiding genius of the place—the incarnate devil.—On an elevated seat, in the back part of this indescribable hell, he sat; while ever and anon there issued from his mouth, flames of fire, which withered and scorched all the deluded wretches who had been enticed within, by the intrigue and cunning of his faithful understrappers.
Unobserved by the devil's agent, whom we immediately recognized as Wilbar, we concealed ourselves behind a huge cask labelled mania a potu.

Having recovered somewhat from the shock on entering this den of the devil, and from the effects of the pestiferous air which filled the place, we took a survey of the premises. Around the store were arranged Casks, Barrels and Demijohns, some of which were labelled as follows:
MAN-KILLER—MANIAC BEVERAGE—OR-PHAN-MAKER—SOUL-DESTROYER—THE DEVIL'S SYRUP—DRUNKARD'S COUGH AND DELIRIUM TREMENS, &c. &c. We noticed also several signs nailed to the wall, a few of which bore the following inscriptions: Men trained here for the Gallows—Lessons given in Suicide—Children Instructed in the Road to Death. Directly over the place where Wilbar stood, were suspended a Skull and Cross-Bones. On the shelves above the casks and barrels, were placed bottles, and we saw a creature which resembled the devil in miniature, occasionally thrusting his head from the necks; this we supposed to be the "Bottle Imp."

Near the devil was a cauldron of flaming liquid, which we afterwards discovered was filled from the devil's own mouth, boiled down, bottled and labelled Lucifer's Elixir.
We had thus far surveyed the place, when the door opened at our side, and a young, blustering man, with a red face and bloodshot eyes, stepped up to a cask labelled The Devil's Syrup, and with an oath, swallowed the entire glass. We easily recognized this man by his swaggering gait and horrible profanity. We have often seen him engaged about the store, serving at times as an under clerk. Another immediately entered and called for a glass of Soul-Destroyer. He drank and took his seat by the stove. A moment after, the door was again opened, and a miserable wretch staggered in; his hair was matted together, his eyes horribly swollen, his clothes torn and ragged, the very picture of despair. With a desperate effort, he reached the counter, and called for a glass of Mania-a-Potu. An old man with spectacles approached towards the cask, behind which we were concealed, and drew from it a glass. We held our breath until he left, for we discovered him to be the very man who once stood up in Court and testified he had never sold in this store a single drop of Mania-a-potu. He administered the dose to his victim, who immediately became a raving maniac.

Customers now flocked in, some cursing and swearing, others quarreling and fighting. Among the number, was a young man who stepped up to the counter and called for a glass of Lucifer's Elixir. At this moment, a fiendish chuckle was heard, and Wilbar looking towards the devil, clapped his thumb upon his nose, and with a significant look which was answered by his majesty, proceeded to pour out the burning liquid. The young man drank to the very bottom of the glass, and with a horrid yell, fell down dead upon the floor.
His pockets were immediately rifled of their contents, and lest life should not be entirely extinct, another glass was poured down his throat.

A rustling was now heard upon one of the shelves, and one of the Bottle Imps was heard to say, "The Dew Drop man;" whereupon the dead body was left, and all hands rushed to the door, having armed themselves with rotten eggs and rotten apples, doing, as we afterwards learned, but little harm.

The hellish laugh of the devil, the screaming of the Bottle Imps, the hissing of the cauldron, and the gibbering of the customers, interrupted us in our dream, and we awoke. "WAS IT ALL A DREAM." The plaintiff sued for $3,000 damages.

The defendants set forth in their specifications of their defence, that according to its fair interpretation, the dream was true, and was a just criticism upon the plaintiff's rum shop.

A large number of witnesses testified to the facts in regard to Wilbar's establishment —that he there sold large quantities of liquor—that it was often filled with low, drunken, noisy, swearing, fighting company—that his casks and signs were painted with the words rum, brandy, gin, &c. &c.
That intemperate old men and children, after liquors, were often seen there—that it was visited on the Sabbath—that one of his regular customers had died of delirium tremens a day or two after leaving the shop intoxicated—that another, in a fit of delirium tremens, had attempted to murder his wife and children with an axe, and had afterwards been confined in the Worcester Insane Asylum, where he died, &c. &c. Dr.
Jewett testified to the effect of excessive drinking in producing disease, shortening life, leading to insanity, and instigating murder and other crimes. Rev. Mr. Curtin, chaplain of the State Prison, testified to the evil effects of intemperance upon the morals of society, and the souls of men, and gave the results of his observation as to the vast amount of misery and crime and pauperism arising from this source. The introduction of all this testimony was stoutly objected to by the plaintiff's counsel, but was ruled by the court to be competent and proper. The cause was contested inch by inch by the respective counsel for the parties. About thirteen witnesses were examined, and the trial lasted four days. The court house was filled with interested spectators, representing both sides of the temperance question.

H. B. Stanton, Esq., of Boston, argued the case on the part of the defendants. His address occupied five hours in the delivery.
He went through the Dream paragraph by paragraph, and epithet by epithet, and contended that every word in it, taken according to its proper meaning, was true. He took the ground, also, that inasmuch as the plaintiff was engaged in an illegal vocation, (selling liquors without a license, and therefore contrary to law,) and as the publication was made solely in regard to his agency in that vocation, he could not maintain his action, however libellous the publication, and from whatever motives put forth. That for men engaged in a business like that pursued by Wilbar, the law had nothing to give but punishment. This point was argued to the court at length. In his charge to the jury, Judge Hubbard fully sustained these views.
The whole charge was very able. T. G.
Coffin, Esq., of New Bedford, closed the case for the plaintiff, and during his long address, made a desperate effort in behalf of his client. After consulting together about an hour, the jury found a verdict for the defendants. Let rum-sellers now understand that the violated laws have nothing in store for them but retribution.—Boston Recorder.

WM. ALBAUGH, A. M., Tutor and Teacher in Preparatory Department.

H. R. GEIGER, Teacher of Writing.
The course of studies in Pennsylvania College is as extensive and substantial as that of any institution in the country. The Preparatory Department provides for instruction in all the branches of a thorough English business education, in addition to the Elements of the Mathematics and Classical Literature. The College course is arranged in the four classes usual in the institutions of this country.

The government of the students is as energetic as their circumstances seem to require. They attend at least two recitations a day, and the Faculty contemplate increasing them to three, Church and Bible Class on the Sabbath, and are visited in their rooms so frequently as to preclude the danger of any great irregularities. It is believed no institution in the United States has more exemplary young men in connexion with it. They are all required to lodge in the College edifice, special cases excepted.

The annual expenses are—for board, tuition and room rent, during the winter session $61 87 1-2; for the summer session, $41 87 1-2; washing, $10; wood, $3 00. Total expense, $116 75. Boarding can be had in town at $1 25 per week.

There are two vacations in the year, commencing on the third Thursdays of April and September; each of five weeks continuance.

The summer session will commence on Thursday, the 22d of May. The annual commencement takes place on the third Thursday in September.

The Trustees have recently made various arrangements which will increase the efficiency of the institution. They have increased the number of Professors and provided for the most ample instruction of the students.

Professor Baughman and Haupt are prepared to board boys and to exercise a special supervision over their studies and deportment, and Parents who may prefer placing their sons under their care, will be secure in regard to their proper management, under arrangements such as pertain to the family circle.
